Google Workspace

Everything your frontline workers need to get things done, now in one place

While 2020 left businesses scrambling to adapt to the Covid crisis, many information workers were well-equipped to work through the pandemic. But they represent a small fraction of the total workforce. Globally, about 80% of workers are deskless—and these critical employees often don't have the technology tools they need to effectively do their jobs.[1]

Approximately

87%

of information workers say it's "easy/somewhat easy" to access the technology and equipment they need to work from home.[2]

While only

35%

of deskless workers say they received additional technology to complete their jobs.[1]

It's time to close the technology gap.
Introducing Google Workspace Frontline

Google Workspace

Empower your frontline employees to do their best work in any environment.

Built for flexibility

Best-in-class mobile UX on any device with any screen size

As the backbone of your organization, frontline workers operate in dynamic environments where efficiency matters. Google Workspace Frontline offers a best-in-class mobile experience on any size screen and enables people to communicate by chat, email, or video, all from the Gmail app.

Simple to adopt

Onboard quickly with familiar tools people know and love

Since 2.6 billion people already use Google Workspace, odds are that many of your frontline workers use our tools regularly. With our familiar, intuitive UX, everyone can spend less time onboarding, training, and managing, and more time getting things done.

Security you can rely on

Securing your frontline is good for business

In the fast-paced frontline work environment, device loss and employee turnover are common. Our advanced endpoint management lets you wipe devices remotely, enable screen locks, and require strong passwords to protect your organization's data.

Thousands of companies across different industries equip their frontline employees with Google Workspace:

Virgin active   Schnucks   COLGATE-PALMOLIVE   ATB Financial   Morrisons Since 1899

DESIGN WITHIN REACH   GANT   Scotts Miracle-Gro   KOREAN AIR   ASCENSION

To learn more about Google Workspace Frontline, contact our sales team.